Days of Wonder announces the first expansion for Quadropolis: Public Services
Quadropolis' Mayor will face new challenges!

Los Altos, CA ; Paris France – January 31, 2017. Today, Days of Wonder announced Quadropolis: Public Services, a new expansion for its Quadropolis board game.

With the Public Services expansion, players will add all new Public Service Buildings to their Quadropolis game. As a Mayor, will they choose to increase the population by building a Maternity Ward or protect their citizens with a new Police Station? But competition will be fierce, and being able to build the right Public Service at the right time will not be made easy by the other players.

Each round, a selection of Public Service Tiles is revealed and placed face up next to the board. Players will now be able to build these in their city, each of these new buildings offering in game bonuses and scoring options for all new challenges as the Mayor of a modern city.

This expansion contains 24 Public Service Building Tiles, 4 Helpers and one Rulebook. Public Services is expected to be released in Europe in April and in North America in June, for a retail price of 13€/15$.
