

Jean-Claude Van-Rice

Left stone : Jean-Claude is aware. When he enters play, he is sideways and thus fills 2 adjacent (ghost) spaces. Place this card perpendicular to the board. Jean-Claude is green, if the green board is filled place him on any board as normal.

In a situation where there aren't 2 free adjacent spaces due to Buddha or Ghosts, Jean-Claude makes space next to a free space and sends the ghost or Buddha to the discard pile or the Temple. Right stone effects are ignored for Ghosts discarded in this manner. Jean-Claude cannot eliminate another Incarnation of Wu-Feng this way.

To defeat him, players must break both his legs: his left leg has a 3 Blue resistance and his right 4 Green (his right leg is stronger).

To send him to the discard pile, an exorcism must be successful on each of his two legs (the order has no importance).

When one of his legs is broken, he moves fully on to the space for the remaining leg, leaving an open space.

Right stone : When both of his legs are broken, he leaves play and gives an apple to the active player (reward). This "apple" is considered to be an Artifact. An apple is good for the body and it's full of pectin, but it can spoil! During his Yang Phase, the player can discard the apple to return any Taoist (including himself) to 3 QI. Be careful - if another Wu-Feng comes into play before the apple is used, the apple has spoiled and it must be discarded with no effect.

The apple cannot be used on a dead Taoist.
