The Tale of the Sea Spray

THEY MEET

- The time has come for the finch to migrate . If it joins the other birds, their arrangement forms a "V" shape.

Take card .

- The carp  will leave when the bell gives the signal. The clocktower bell will next ring at 6 o'clock.

Take card .

- As the two animals travel along the river  and , their gazes are connected by the current's lines. By positioning the cards so that the lines formed by the river's currents link the fish's eyes to the bird's eyes, the number 52 becomes visible in the current.

Take card .

- The carp, filled with emotion, leaps out of the water but loses sight of the finch. Access Machine  and select the direction in which the fish must swim to find the bird. Within the reflections seen on the water droplets , the bird can be seen near a tree and a house, where the house is next to a tower. Only one heading fits this description. Select the corresponding view and press OK.

THE SEDUCTION

- The finch and the carp have found each other and can now declare their love. Place card 57 on top of the cards depicting the initial scenery to update the image.

- The carp shows its love by swimming from bubble to bubble.

Access Machine 78 and guide the fish toward each bubble as seen on cards 4 and 78 while avoiding obstacles (such as seaweed and coral) displayed on your screen. When you've reached the final bubble, the view will zoom out and you'll see the bubble trail forms a ↪+53.

- The finch 24 is searching for a large hidden tree in the forest. The number 16 is hidden within the forest on card 57.

Take card 16.

- Once it has found the tree (16), the finch (24) engraves a message of love into the bark.  $16 + 24 = 40$ .

Take card 40.

- The bird engraves its feelings into the tree 40, but something is missing. To look from above, rotate the card 180° to read  $1 + 8 = 9$ .

Take card 9.

► Now that it has expressed its feelings through the engraved message , the bird sings a love song; however, this card itself does not have a numerical label. In the app, pressing the bird will cause it to sing; it will sing a different part of its song with each tap. The sequence of the bird's song is as follows: a low note is followed by two high-pitched notes, then a single high-pitched note, and finally two low-pitched notes. Repeatedly pressing the bird will cycle through this sequence. On card , the small hearts represent the high-pitched notes, while the larger hearts represent the low-pitched notes. Therefore, the bird's song translates into  $11 + 30$ . So, this card is .

► Now that the finch and the carp have declared their love for one another, you must unite their messages  and  which will enable them to share their declarations with each other:  $53 + 41 = 94$

Take card .

► The bird and the fish dance together; the bird soars into the sky then dives into the water, while the fish leaps out to join the bird in the air. By using cards , , , and  to recreate the entire choreographed actions, including the bird's initial soaring upward, they will form the number 7.

LOSING ONE ANOTHER

► Human activity disrupts the dance of the two lovers . The fish and the bird must escape by avoiding the obstacles left by the humans as they escape. By following the bird's path, you will form a red 23, and by following the fish's path, you will discover a blue 62.  $23+62 = 85$

Take card .

$$23+62$$

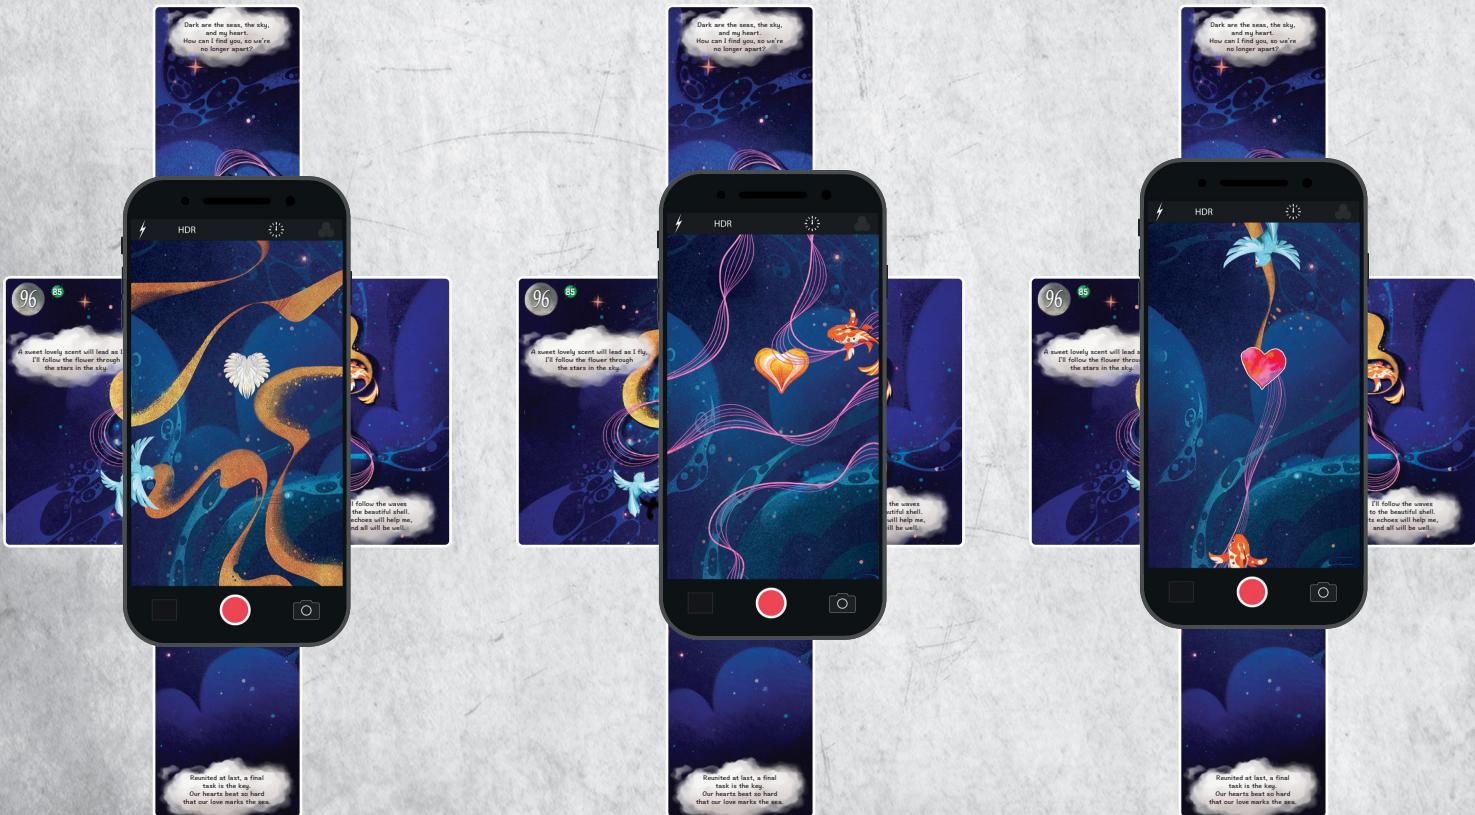

► Access Machine 85 The displayed text informs you that the sun and birds sink behind the sea behind the sea depicted on the scenery found on the adventure's initial cards. As you do this, the birds will indicate several letters, individually and in groups. In order, these are P, R, ESS, and MOON, which together form the message "Press Moon." As instructed, press the moon icon visible in the app's menu.

► As night falls, the lovers have once again gotten lost; you can find them on card 44. Scan this card with your device.

► The carp and the finch, caught between the sky and the sea, are searching for each other, but they each need an object to guide them. Assemble cards 44, 96, 97, 98 and 99 on your device's screen, then tap the white, feathery heart to reveal the bird's path. Next, press and hold the bird on the screen to guide it along the yellow path to its destination, which is the flower. In a similar manner, tap the orange heart-shaped fin to make its path visible. Hold your finger against the fish on the screen as you move it toward the heart. Finally, press the central heart to display new yellow and blue paths. Move both the bird and the fish simultaneously so that they reach the heart at the same time.

Your poem is complete.

Like the carp and the finch, you and your loved one are finally reunited.

The Song of the Sea Spray has reached a joyful conclusion.

Congratulations!

Here is the complete poem:

The Song of the Sea Spray

A finch and a carp journey toward the sea,
Traveling together in perfect harmony.

The distant sea is their goal, and is yet within sight,
But the animals must begin their journey tonight!

- It's almost time, not a moment to waste!
The bell will soon ring, then we'll travel with haste!

- The whispering wind says to be on my way
and join my companions without delay

As they begin to depart, both different as can be,
Their gazes connect in the river suddenly.

Happily soaring, the finch sings from great height,
And with a flap of the wing, their gazes unite

As my eyes met their gaze, my confidence waned,
I leapt into the air, my heart unrestrained.

Was that which I saw a mirage or reflection?
To see them again I must go which direction?

Enamored, the carp pursues their new love;
While the finch skims the water, lost up above.

Though brief, I was still quite enthralled by that glance.
Where is that fish that makes my heart dance?

With their love reunited, they have much to say
As they proclaim their true feelings each in their own way!

-Connecting the bubbles will my message reveal
And prove to my love that my feelings are real.

I must search around for a large hidden tree,
And then, on its bark, carve the love within me.
The bark of this tree is so smooth and so soft.
I could inscribe here unheard words from aloft.

-There's something amiss with my message of love.
To see it correctly, I must look from above.

My feelings eternal are carved on this tree,
Now I burst forth in singing; Can you hear me?

- We unite our two messages of undying love
To join you, I'll dive down from my place up above.

- I dive from the skies to your world down below.
- I, too, will spring upward to sparkle like so.
As a white arrow pierces the water in a flash,
Beside it, the waves rise up with a splash.

Underwater, they dance, the bird and the fish,
Forming patterns of bubbles as they live out their wish.
The flames of their love take shape and burn bright;
Take a step back and observe with delight.

But, alas, their dance is by Man interrupted.
They flee before things can become more disrupted.
The birds and the sun sink behind the great sea;
Where are you, my love? I'm lost as can be!

- The sun quickly sets, giving way to the night.
Yet more we must do for us to unite.
Dark are the seas, the sky, and my heart.
How can I find you, so we're no longer apart?

-A sweet lovely scent will lead as I fly,
I'll follow the flower through the stars in the sky.
- I'll follow the waves to the beautiful shell.
Its echoes will help me, and all will be well.

Reunited at last, a final task is the key.
Our hearts beat so hard that our love marks the sea.

And as these two lovers in happiness dwell
The wind and the sea are united as well.
The finch and the carp, together will stay;
From this unlikely love comes the Song of the Sea Spray.
